Innovators is an exclusive group of philanthropists that will impact the lives of children in North Texas and beyond by advancing promising and exciting pediatric research studies.

Members will learn about the clinical research process through quarterly events, network with other community leaders, see their philanthropic contributions in action and directly influence the future of medicine.

RESEARCH & INNOVATION

At Children's HealthSM, research is a way of life and a way forward to better care.

Our physicians and scientists actively engage in significant research and innovation to advance medicine, deliver better outcomes and a healthier future for our patients and children around the world.

As the only academically affiliated pediatric hospital in the North Texas region, Children's Health offers unparalleled access to the latest groundbreaking research, clinical trials and academic expertise through a partnership with UT Southwestern.

PHILANTHROPY

Philanthropic support helps to launch new ideas and is necessary to keep the discovery process moving forward.

Research can provide hope to a family with a sick child who has no other options and can lead to new treatments and cures.

These projects make a direct impact on all children that we treat - today and in the future.
